How many times a year would we have the opportunity to gain new experiences adventuring close to nature? Go to new places. Do new things. Exciting things. Challenging things. Learn new skills and techniques. Make new friends. See the world in a different light.

In the past, adventure tourism in Thailand has only attracted a niche group of tourists because of the focus on heavy outdoor activities.

Travel was difficult and accommodation unsatisfying and, therefore, not suitable for people with low endurance or high expectations of comfort. However, the modern trend of “adventure tourism” is gaining popularity with both foreign, as well as domestic tourists because of the developments and adjustments of activities to make them more suitable for different groups and individuals. New hotels and other forms of accommodation, as well as new flight routes have been developed close to destinations making travel more convenient. The standardization done by the responsible organizations also helps raise the level of management of the destinations, as well as the adventure tourism operators.
