Hypnosis and the Higher Self Lawrence Follas

Lawrence Follas highlights instances of paranormal phenomena he has encountered while carrying out hypnotic research over a period of 30 years. Subjects have relived 'previous lives', spoken in foreign languages and diagnosed their own mental and physical conditions from a higher level of consciousness. Some subjects have been able to interpret their own and others' dreams and provide information of a deeply spiritual nature. In this new edition of Hypnosis and the Higher Self corroboration of these findings has been obtained from some of the work now being carried out in the leading medical universities in the United States. Because of these revelations the author feels that in the not too distant future proof will be available which will convince even the most hardened skeptic that humankind is composed of much more than just a physical body. --- from book's back cover
